PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

I've built my work around helping ideas take shape—supporting projects and programs from early planning through execution, while paying close attention to how they're experienced along the way. My background is in design, visual communication, and project coordination, with experience across academic, nonprofit, and professional settings. I bring a calm, steady approach to moving pieces, holding timelines, communication, and details while also noticing where something could be clearer or work better. I'm especially drawn to work that requires both structure and thoughtfulness. I'm motivated to build solutions that are not only creative but usable, sustainable, and grounded in how people actually experience them.
